

Announcement.

THE purpose of the JOURNAL OF PRACTICAL METAPHYSICS is to apply philosophy to daily conduct in the broadest sense, and thus fill the gap which exists between the realm of pure metaphysics and the demands of practical life. It is founded upon the principle that the philosophical point of view is the only universal point of view. Philosophy, as thus considered, is a rational inquiry into the ultimate postulates of religion, ethics and science; and is at once broadly inclusive and constructive. Its ideal is the impartial discussion of the most opposed points of view, and the interpretation of all facts, since no theory of the universe can be sound which does not take full cognizance of all that man has thought and said, of all that he is and needs. THE JOURNAL therefore invites the co-operation of all who are ready to contribute to its pages in accordance with its high standard. It seeks the best that men and women have to offer who think fundamentally. It proposes as its ideal the unification of practice and precept, intuition and reason, in the light of the latest discoveries of nineteenth century science and of the most recent studies of the higher or spiritual nature of man. It is therefore dedicated to the service of humanity, the development of true manhood, true health, happiness and freedom, the inculcation of lofty moral and spiritual ideals, including such discussions of present day problems as shall most rapidly and effectually contribute to the progress of society, the development of the ethical life, of sound comprehensive philosophy and of universal religion.

In so far as THE JOURNAL advocates through its pages—left open as an arena for the free discussion of impersonal truth—the philosophy and practice of mental healing, it does so that it may supplement the more material thought of the age, and thus play its part in the formulation of a far more satisfactory philosophy of mind than the accepted psychology of the day. THE JOURNAL calls particular attention to this aspect of its work, and urges all who have questions to ask, and noteworthy experiences to relate to forward their communications to the editor.

It is hoped that THE JOURNAL will be the means of drawing together in close sympathy many who have been unable to unite with existing organizations. Union, through freedom of individuality and the exclusion of personal attack and reference, is a fundamental principle of THE JOURNAL; and it is issued in cordial fellowship for all who are actively and earnestly engaged in the great work of elevating humanity.

THE JOURNAL is issued about the first of each month.

By mail $1.00 per year, in advance. Single copies 10 cents. Foreign postage 50 cents per year extra.

Money may be sent by check, registered letter, express or postal order, made payable to THE PHILOSOPHICAL PUBLISHING CO., Station B, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

Notice of change in address should be sent two weeks in advance, giving both the old and new addresses.

Every reader of THE JOURNAL is urged to extend its sphere of influence by calling attention to it, and recommending it to those interested in practical metaphysics.

Contributions and letters of inquiry should be accompanied by stamps for return postage. Those desiring formal receipt for subscription should send stamp for same.

Advertising rates, with liberal discounts, made known upon application.

Advertisements should be forwarded not later than the 15th of the month preceding desired issue.

WHAT ALL THE WORLD'S A-SEEKING

By RALPH WALDO TRINE.

It has already gone through several editions, and is rapidly increasing in its circulation.

Each is building his world from within: thought is the builder; for thoughts are forces,—subtle, vital, irresistible, omnipotent,—and according as used do they bring power or impotence, peace or pain, success or failure.—From Title Page.

A most wholesome and uplifting contribution to the literature that makes for conduct. It suggests Mr. Drummond's books. * * * It is most fascinatingly written, and deserves the remarkable success it has achieved.—The Review of Reviews.

* * * The volume abounds in passages of great beauty and strength; but the striking feature of the book is, after all, the solid, sensible, healthy exposition of the one theme it is written to enforce.—The New York Independent.

Here we have a whole "body of divinity" without dogma, a "plan of life" without pessimism, a constructive, cheery, delightful "guide to goodness" without one word of cant, but fragrant as a rose, ripe as a pippin, and full of music as a thrush.—Frances E. Willard.

It is a book most suited for the holiday season, when something specially significant of the meaning of the great Christian festival is acceptable to many men and women.—Boston Daily Evening Transcript.

THE PHILOSOPHY OF P. P. QUIMBY. With Portrait.

BY

ANNETTA GERTRUDE DRESSER.

CONTENTS: Historical Sketch; Extracts from the Press, 1857-65; Reminiscences; Exposition of Dr. Quimby's Philosophy; Selections from Dr. Quimby's Manuscripts.

"The Philosophy of P. P. Quimby" is a remarkably clear and concise history of the originator of Mental Healing and his philosophy, with excerpts from his writings. That others who have founded schools of their own under the names of Christian Science, Metaphysics, etc., have plagiarized his ideas and methods, claiming them as original, there can be no question; and certainly none of them have thoroughly understood his methods. He put his system in writing long before there was any thought of the Mental Healing schools now in existence. He was an intelligent, practical, as well as spiritual man, and evolved his philosophy from the depths of his own consciousness and experiences. He had but little use for books. His life-long efforts were to overcome the errors impressed on the minds of the people by both priests and doctors, whose ignorant hypnotic suggestions were, he claimed, responsible for the evils and diseases in the world. The World's Advance-Thought and Universal Republic, Portland, Ore.

Announcement.

THE purpose of the JOURNAL OF PRACTICAL METAPHYSICS is to apply philosophy to daily conduct in the broadest sense, and thus fill the gap which exists between the realm of pure metaphysics and the demands of practical life. It is founded upon the principle that the philosophical point of view is the only universal point of view. Philosophy, as thus considered, is a rational inquiry into the ultimate postulates of religion, ethics and science; and is at once broadly inclusive and constructive. Its ideal is the impartial discussion of the most opposed points of view, and the interpretation of all facts, since no theory of the universe can be sound which does not take full cognizance of all that man has thought and said, of all that he is and needs. THE JOURNAL therefore invites the co-operation of all who are ready to contribute to its pages in accordance with its high standard. It seeks the best that men and women have to offer who think fundamentally. It proposes as its ideal the unification of practice and precept, intuition and reason, in the light of the latest discoveries of nineteenth century science and of the most recent studies of the higher or spiritual nature of man. It is therefore dedicated to the service of humanity, the development of true manhood, true health, happiness and freedom, the inculcation of lofty moral and spiritual ideals, including such discussions of present day problems as shall most rapidly and effectually contribute to the progress of society, the development of the ethical life, of sound comprehensive philosophy and of universal religion.

In so far as THE JOURNAL advocates through its pages—left open as an arena for the free discussion of impersonal truth—the philosophy and practice of mental healing, it does so that it may supplement the more material thought of the age, and thus play its part in the formulation of a far more satisfactory philosophy of mind than the accepted psychology of the day. THE JOURNAL calls particular attention to this aspect of its work, and urges all who have questions to ask, and noteworthy experiences to relate to forward their communications to the editor.

It is hoped that THE JOURNAL will be the means of drawing together in close sympathy many who have been unable to unite with existing organizations. Union, through freedom of individuality and the exclusion of personal attack and reference, is a fundamental principle of THE JOURNAL; and it is issued in cordial fellowship for all who are actively and earnestly engaged in the great work of elevating humanity.

THE JOURNAL is issued about the first of each month.

By mail $1.00 per year, in advance. Single copies 10 cents. Foreign postage 50 cents per year extra.

Money may be sent by check, registered letter, express or postal order, made payable to THE PHILOSOPHICAL PUBLISHING CO., Station B, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

Notice of change in address should be sent two weeks in advance, giving both the old and new addresses.

Every reader of THE JOURNAL is urged to extend its sphere of influence by calling attention to it, and recommending it to those interested in practical metaphysics.

Contributions and letters of inquiry should be accompanied by stamps for return postage. Those desiring formal receipt for subscription should send stamp for same.

Advertising rates, with liberal discounts, made known upon application.

Advertisements should be forwarded not later than the 15th of the month preceding desired issue.

THE JOURNAL therefore invites the co-operation of all who are ready to contribute to its pages in accordance with its high standard. It seeks the best that men and women have to offer who think fundamentally. It proposes as its ideal the unification of practice and precept, intuition and reason, in the light of the latest discoveries of nineteenth century science and of the most recent studies of the higher or spiritual nature of man. It is therefore dedicated to the service of humanity, the development of true manhood, true health, happiness and freedom, the inculcation of lofty moral and spiritual ideals, including such discussions of present day problems as shall most rapidly and effectually contribute to the progress of society, the development of the ethical life, of sound comprehensive philosophy and of universal religion.

In so far as THE JOURNAL advocates through its pages — left open as an arena for the free discussion of impersonal truth — the philosophy and practice of mental healing, it does so that it may supplement the more material thought of the age, and thus play its part in the formulation of a far more satisfactory philosophy of mind than the accepted psychology of the day. THE JOURNAL calls particular attention to this aspect of its work, and urges all who have questions to ask, and noteworthy experiences to relate to forward their communications to the editor.

It is hoped that THE JOURNAL will be the means of drawing together in close sympathy many who have been unable to unite with existing organizations. Union, through freedom of individuality and the exclusion of personal attack and reference, is a fundamental principle of THE JOURNAL; and it is issued in cordial fellowship for all who are actively and earnestly engaged in the great work of elevating humanity.

THE JOURNAL is issued about the first of each month.

By mail $1.00 per year, in advance. Single copies 10 cents. Foreign postage 50 cents per year extra.

Money may be sent by check, registered letter, express or postal order, made payable to THE PHILOSOPHICAL PUBLISHING CO., Station B, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

Contributions and letters of inquiry should be accompanied by stamps for return postage. Those desiring formal receipt for subscription should send stamp for same.

Advertising rates, with liberal discounts, made known upon application.

Announcement.

THE purpose of the JOURNAL OF PRACTICAL METAPHYSICS is to apply philosophy to daily conduct in the broadest sense, and thus fill the gap which exists between the realm of pure metaphysics and the demands of practical life. It is founded upon the principle that the philosophical point of view is the only universal point of view. Philosophy, as thus considered, is a rational inquiry into the ultimate postulates of religion, ethics and science; and is at once broadly inclusive and constructive. Its ideal is the impartial discussion of the most opposed points of view, and the interpretation of all facts, since no theory of the universe can be sound which does not take full cognizance of all that man has thought and said, of all that he is and needs. THE JOURNAL therefore invites the co-operation of all who are ready to contribute to its pages in accordance with its high standard. It seeks the best that men and women have to offer who think fundamentally. It proposes as its ideal the unification of practice and precept, intuition and reason, in the light of the latest discoveries of nineteenth century science and of the most recent studies of the higher or spiritual nature of man. It is therefore dedicated to the service of humanity, the development of true manhood, true health, happiness and freedom, the inculcation of lofty moral and spiritual ideals, including such discussions of present day problems as shall most rapidly and effectually contribute to the progress of society, the development of the ethical life, of sound comprehensive philosophy and of universal religion.

In so far as THE JOURNAL advocates through its pages — left open as an arena for the free discussion of impersonal truth — the philosophy and practice of mental healing, it does so that it may supplement the more material thought of the age, and thus play its part in the formulation of a far more satisfactory philosophy of mind than the accepted psychology of the day. THE JOURNAL calls particular attention to this aspect of its work, and urges all who have questions to ask, and noteworthy experiences to relate to forward their communications to the editor.

It is hoped that THE JOURNAL will be the means of drawing together in close sympathy many who have been unable to unite with existing organizations. Union, through freedom of individuality and the exclusion of personal attack and reference, is a fundamental principle of THE JOURNAL; and it is issued in cordial fellowship for all who are actively and earnestly engaged in the great work of elevating humanity.

Notice of change in address should be sent two weeks in advance, giving both the old and new addresses.

Every reader of THE JOURNAL is urged to extend its sphere of influence by calling attention to it, and recommending it to those interested in practical metaphysics.

Announcement.

THE purpose of the JOURNAL OF PRACTICAL METAPHYSICS is to apply philosophy to daily conduct in the broadest sense, and thus fill the gap which exists between the realm of pure metaphysics and the demands of practical life. It is founded upon the principle that the philosophical point of view is the only universal point of view. Philosophy, as thus considered, is a rational inquiry into the ultimate postulates of religion, ethics and science; and is at once broadly inclusive and constructive. Its ideal is the impartial discussion of the most opposed points of view, and the interpretation of all facts, since no theory of the universe can be sound which does not take full cognizance of all that man has thought and said, of all that he is and needs. THE JOURNAL therefore invites the co-operation of all who are ready to contribute to its pages in accordance with its high standard. It seeks the best that men and women have to offer who think fundamentally. It proposes as its ideal the unification of practice and precept, intuition and reason, in the light of the latest discoveries of nineteenth century science and of the most recent studies of the higher or spiritual nature of man. It is therefore dedicated to the service of humanity, the development of true manhood, true health, happiness and freedom, the inculcation of lofty moral and spiritual ideals, including such discussions of present day problems as shall most rapidly and effectually contribute to the progress of society, the development of the ethical life, of sound comprehensive philosophy and of universal religion.

In so far as THE JOURNAL advocates through its pages — left open as an arena for the free discussion of impersonal truth — the philosophy and practice of mental healing, it does so that it may supplement the more material thought of the age, and thus play its part in the formulation of a far more satisfactory philosophy of mind than the accepted psychology of the day. THE JOURNAL calls particular attention to this aspect of its work, and urges all who have questions to ask, and noteworthy experiences to relate to forward their communications to the editor.

It is hoped that THE JOURNAL will be the means of drawing together in close sympathy many who have been unable to unite with existing organizations. Union, through freedom of individuality and the exclusion of personal attack and reference, is a fundamental principle of THE JOURNAL; and it is issued in cordial fellowship for all who are actively and earnestly engaged in the great work of elevating humanity.

THE JOURNAL is issued about the first of each month.

By mail $1.00 per year, in advance. Single copies 10 cents. Foreign postage 50 cents per year extra.

Money may be sent by check, registered letter, express or postal order, made payable to THE PHILOSOPHICAL PUBLISHING CO., Station B, Boston, Mass., U. S. A.

Notice of change in address should be sent two weeks in advance, giving both the old and new addresses.

Every reader of THE JOURNAL is urged to extend its sphere of influence by calling attention to it, and recommending it to those interested in practical metaphysics.

Contributions and letters of inquiry should be accompanied by stamps for return postage. Those desiring formal receipt for subscription should send stamp for same.

Advertising rates, with liberal discounts, made known upon application.

Advertisements should be forwarded not later than the 15th of the month preceding desired issue.

Will You Receive Health and Happiness?

The New System of Treatment of Disease, indorsed by leading clergymen and educators.

MARY A. LIVERMORE (Melrose) says:

"I have come to feel that there is a world of remedial agencies as yet not fairly explored. I shall watch your progress with great interest."

MR. HENRY WOOD (author, "God's Image in Man") says:

"Standing as your system does somewhat as a connecting link between two systems, or perhaps with an eclectic spirit taking the best of both, there would seem to be a field of broad scope for your work. I wish you all success."

MR. H. W. DRESSER, editor of Journal of Practical Metaphysics, says:

"I heartily approve your plan. It is just such a movement as I have been looking for, and I believe it to be a step in advance of most work along these lines. I wish you success."

REV. HELEN VAN ANDERSON (Pastor Church of the High Life) says:

"We certainly need the large insight and practical application of principles that will solve every question in a sensible manner. Your system promises this most satisfactorily and comprehensively."

We use entirely new remedial agencies, utilizing all mental and material means, strictly in the order of their comparative value towards permanent healing in each case.

Will You Receive Health and Happiness?

The New System of Treatment of Disease, indorsed by leading clergymen and educators.

MARY A. LIVERMORE (Melrose) says:

"I have come to feel that there is a world of remedial agencies as yet not fairly explored. I shall watch your progress with great interest."

MR. HENRY WOOD (author, "God's Image in Man") says:

"Standing as your system does somewhat as a connecting link between two systems, or perhaps with an eclectic spirit taking the best of both, there would seem to be a field of broad scope for your work. I wish you all success."

MR. H. W. DRESSER, editor of Journal of Practical Metaphysics, says:

"I heartily approve your plan. It is just such a movement as I have been looking for, and I believe it to be a step in advance of most work along these lines. I wish you success."

REV. HELEN VAN ANDERSON (Pastor Church of the High Life) says:

"We certainly need the large insight and practical application of principles that will solve every question in a sensible manner. Your system promises this most satisfactorily and comprehensively."

We use entirely new remedial agencies, utilizing all mental and material means, strictly in the order of their comparative value towards permanent healing in each case.
